

Professional Standards, Dispute Resolution

Have a dispute? Ohio REALTORS can help

Ohio REALTORS believe in doing business the right way. Part of our commitment to our clients is pledging to help resolve disputes. The Association offers several services to its members and their clients.

All REALTORS pledge to abide by the Code of Ethics of the National Association of REALTORS. The Code sets forth the obligations of a REALTOR to their clients and customers, to members of the public and to one another.

Difficulties between real estate professionals typically result from misunderstandings, miscommunication or lack of adequate communication. If you have a problem with a real estate professional, you may want to speak with them directly or with a principal broker in the firm. Open, constructive discussion may resolve questions and adversity, eliminating the need for further action.

If you are still not satisfied after discussing matters with your real estate professional or a principal broker in that firm, you may want to contact the local board or association of REALTORS. Click below to find the listing of local boards and associations in Ohio along with an Ombudsman Request Form where you can request informal assistance to try and resolve the dispute.

- Information explaining our process: “Before You File a Complaint”
- Ombudsman Request Form
- REALTOR Code of Ethics
- Additional Resources from the National Association of REALTORS
- Ohio Local Board Directory
- Ohio Division of Real Estate and Professional Licensing (614.466.4100)
- Find a REALTOR

SHARE

📍 200 E. Town St., Columbus OH, 43215

☎ 614.228.6675

✉ oar@ohiorealtors.org

LATEST FROM TWITTER

🐦 Coach Marilou with insight on how to discover the simple joys. <https://t.co/0eJOCke9O5>

🐦 Latest look at the Ohio real estate market shows increased interest in buying vs. renting. <https://t.co/OoS1fIKygl>

CONNECT WITH US

-  Facebook
-  Young Professionals Network
-  Twitter
-  Instagram

© 2018 Ohio REALTORS. Privacy Policy

IRS Section 6104 requires this organization to make certain forms available for public inspection. Interested parties may contact Robert Fletcher, CEO at 614.228.6675 or oar@ohiorealtors.org